

ALL SAINTS'
COLLEGE

15 March 2017, Melville Times (Online),
Christopher-John (CJ) Daudu

All Saints' College student off to Canberra for National Schools Constitutional Convention

March 15th, 2017, 04:00PM | Written by Josh Zimmerman | Melville Times NEWS

ALL Saints' College student Christopher-John Daudu joins 120 Year 11 and 12 students at the 22nd National Schools Constitutional Convention in Canberra this week.

The program provides senior students with an opportunity to become better informed about how Australia's Constitution provides a democratic framework and encourages them to take an active interest in the operation of government.

Christopher-John said he was grateful and excited for the opportunity to travel to the National Convention this year.

"I thoroughly enjoyed the State Constitutional Convention, it was such an informative experience full of engaging and passionate speakers," he said.

"The most exciting part of the convention for me is the opportunity to meet like-minded politics enthusiasts from not only Western Australia but also across the country."

MORE: Fatal dog attack trauma continues as local govt bodies refuse to take action

Top Stories

Dinner back on: Dinner in the Sky flying high again after City of South Perth gives ok to reopen

Bedford: fatal dog attack trauma continues for resident as local govt bodies refuse to take action

Trains cancelled between Whitfords and Butler stations from Sunday